His Play-A-Long series of instructional books and CDs, using the chord-scale system, the first of which was released in 1967, are an internationally renowned resource for jazz education. [1] His summer workshops have educated students of all ages since the 1960s. Career Aebersold was born in New Albany, Indiana. When he was 15, he played with local bands, then attended Indiana University in Bloomington while leading bands in southern Indiana and Kentucky. During the late 1960s, he taught at Southeastern Indiana University and in the 1970s and 1990s at the University of Louisville. He started summer workshops during the week for students who have spread around the world in countries such as Canada, England, Scotland, Germany, Denmark and Australia. Aebersold plays the saxophone, piano, banjo and bass. [2] Play-A-Long Series Most volumes in Aebersold's Play-A-Long series feature a selection of ten to twelve jazz patterns, although some focus on scales, standardized chord progressions (such as blues), or original compositions by Aebersold's collaborators. The books contain graphics for the songs in question, transposed as needed for C instruments (treble and bass), as well as transpositions for B-flat and E-flat instruments. The recordings feature a professional rhythm section (typically piano, bass and drums, occasionally including guitar) performing an improvised accompaniment (comping) for each song. Melody instruments such as saxophone and trumpet are omitted, allowing a jazz student to practice the melody of the song and improvise on chord changes with accompaniment. Piano and bass tracks are panned on opposite channels so that a pianist or bass player can easily omit the recorded piano or bass part by silencing the appropriate channel. Perhaps the best-known feature of the Play-A-Long series is the voice of Aebersold, which counts the rhythm of each track on most of Aebersold's recordings. [4] Workshops for more than 50 years, Aebersold has also held summer jazz workshops, historically throughout the U.S. and internationally, and in recent years at the University of Louisville. The week-long event is advertised as a place to learn jazz through hands-on experience through an intensive learning environment for musicians of varying ages and levels. The standard curriculum includes master's classes, ear training sessions, jazz theory classes from start to advanced, and teachers. [5] Aebersold performs regularly and presents clinics at the jazz festival at Murray State University in Murray, Kentucky. The festival was the Jamey Aebersold Jazz Festival in 2015 to honor his many years of service to the jazz program at that institution.
